SPEAKING SATURDAY

Beckham and James Will Have A Big Crowd.

Young Ladies Will Participate In the Mounted Parade.

Extensive preparations are being made by the Democratic campaign committee for the speaking here to-morrow at one o'clock, when Gov. Beckham and Congressman James are booked to deliver addresses. The speaking will be at the Tabernacle and the plan is to have a parade, one feature of which will be a large number of young ladies on horseback. This will be the one big rally of the campaign in Hopkinsville and the crowd is expected to be large enough to fill the Tabernacle.

Chairman James West, of the Democratic committee, is preparing for a vigorous close to the county campaign. He has opened headquarters in the Seargent building on the corner of Main and Fifth streets, and a great deal of effective campaign work is being done. The organization of the clubs in every precinct will be pushed and it is expected that complete polls will be made of the voters. The organization is said to be thorough and a strong effort will be made to reduce the Republican majority.

WELL ORGANIZED.

Democrats Present Solid Front to the Enemy.

Activity Means a Majority of 25,000 For Gov. Beckham and State Ticket.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 22.—With the election less than two weeks off the Democrats of Kentucky are more confident than ever before in the history of the party. The organization is superb and not a section of the State, any county or precinct therein, has been overlooked and reports from everywhere indicate an increase in the Democratic vote.

A glimpse at the State campaign headquarters in Louisville makes it apparent at once the amount of work that is being done there. Nearly forty stenographers are working night and day and a force of men is kept engaged constantly in sending out campaign literature and seeing to the mailing of thousands of letters every day. Various committees are also at work at headquarters. Some have to do with organization, others with the assignment of speakers and others with the answering of the mail. In fact the Democrats have done more work in this campaign than in any previous political contest in the State.

Much of the credit of the splendid organization which has been made is due to "the boys in the trenches" and the men who make up the organization in the county precincts. In this campaign they have been faithful and active and should not cease in their work until the polls close on election day.

Much credit is also given to the State press, which has done more for the Democratic party in this campaign than ever before. The Democratic papers have used their columns to secure party success and the good which they have accomplished can not be measured or estimated.

Every Democrat in the State who has aided in the slightest in the work of organization should feel that some of the credit is due him and that he has contributed in large measure towards the success of his party.

The Democrats have met and answered all of the arguments of the Republicans, while the Republicans have been unable to answer the charges which have been made against them from the beginning of the campaign until the present time.

The Democrats are being supported by the better element of the people, while the main strength of the Republicans lies in the negro vote.

The Democrats have men of the highest honor and integrity conducting their campaign while some of those active in the Republican campaign do not bear such a good reputation.

The Democratic campaign committee desires to call on all of the Democrats to go to the polls on election day and vote themselves and see that their neighbors and friends are voted.

When the voice of the entire people has been heard the members of the committee are confident that it will give a majority for Governor Beckham and the entire State ticket of not less than 25,000.

HUMPHREY AND ATHONTON

Out For Gov. Beckham and Entire State Ticket.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 22.—Within the past two weeks two of the most prominent men in Louisville and in Kentucky have announced their intention of voting for Gov. Beckham and the entire Democratic State ticket, because they say that the best interests of the people can be subserved by the election of the Democratic ticket. These men are Judge Alexander P. Humphrey, probably the most prominent lawyer in Louisville, and Mr. John M. Atherton, who is one of Kentucky's wealthiest men. Neither of these men have been voting the Democratic ticket regularly for a number of years. Mr. Atherton in an interview says:

"I have studied the question carefully and thoroughly and have come to the conclusion that it is my duty, as a citizen who has the public welfare at heart, to vote the Democratic ticket. I am out of politics and do not care to even give reasons at any length why I have come to this conclusion, except, as I have said, I believe it my duty as a citizen to support the Democrats."

On Tuesday night, last, Judge Humphrey spoke at a big Democratic rally held at Music Hall and came out strongly for Gov. Beckham and all of the men on the ticket with him.

Mr. M. C. Forbes began work on his fine new house on Main street, Thursday. The work is now progressing on the foundation.

SENSES OF THE ANTELOPE.

Does It Depend Chiefly Upon the Eyes to Detect Danger?

The proposition that prong horned antelope depend more upon the eye than the nose or ear to detect danger is quite new to me as it is to yourself.

Indeed, I should express an exactly opposite opinion, says a writer in Forest and Stream. I suspect that a wrong inference has been drawn from the conspicuous and even laborious use to which the antelope does make of its eyes. But it has always been my belief that he does so because his sight is so far from keen that a careful examination is needed before that particular sense conveys a definite confirmation of the warning first gained through other sources. Hence the so-called "curiosity" of the species. I do not profess any exact information as to the quality of their hearing, for the other protective senses, be they what they may, usually put the animal on guard long before the ears could come into use.

As two cases on the affirmative side for smell, I cite these: Long ago, when antelope were more plentiful and less wary than now, I, being down in an arroyo on soft earth, where I made no sound that could be heard 20 feet off, and whose banks were everywhere much above my head, was discovered by a band of antelope at least 800 yards away, and directly down wind, a careful study of the situation afterward being enough to entirely eliminate the possibility of either sight or hearing being involved.

Again, in October, 1895, with three mounted men and five pack animals behind me, I rode up the trail from the ford across the Yellowstone near the mouth of Blacktail creek, to strike the road from Uncle John Yancey's place to his ashes—to the Mammoth Hot Springs, and up on the open rolling country we rode up on two bucks and three doe antelope, within 30 yards before they found us out. A strong wind was blowing right in our faces, which of necessity would carry both scent and sound away from them and leave them largely dependent upon their eyes. It is true that these antelope were in the park, and had some idea of safety, but even in that secure haven give the nose a chance and a pack outfit will not ride within short pistol range of the prong horn before discovery.

STRANGE TASKS FOR WOMEN.

Butchers, Veterinary Surgeons and Drummers in England.
John Bull has been to some pains to gather figures about queer employments for women in his domain, and the results are surprising. It appears that in England and Wales alone there are nearly 44,000 women boot-makers, 3,239 rope-makers, 4,730 saddle makers, 5,140 who make a living by gardening, 8,350 butchers, 27,707 who keep soul and body together by tending bar, nearly 3,000 cycle makers, and—the highest figure of all—117,640 tailors. It appears that there are women hatters, bootmen, boiler makers, bricklayers, iron foundries, plumbers, plasterers, slaughterers and veterinary surgeons. One woman in the kingdom is set down as a dock laborer, and another as a road laborer, while 279 are undertakers and 12 are shepherds.

One bright, pretty Irish girl, who managed to escape the census altogether, has lately been sent out for her services as a commercial traveler in whiskey. She is supposed to be the only woman "whisky drummer" in England, if not in the world. She is Miss Victoria Short, daughter of a Tipperary property owner whose reduced circumstances on account of land agitation made it necessary for the girl to earn her own living.

An Irish member of parliament got her a place in the third pressing department of the house of commons and her fame in that sphere of national activity brought her the surprising offer to go out on the road. She hesitated at first, but finally accepted the offer, and she has now become an object of much criticism and curiosity. She has succeeded, however, in minding her own business so well that she is making a great success of it. Oddly enough, Miss Short's employer is a man named TALL.

HAGER REFUTES

Charge That Mr. Bryan Was Barred From Kentucky.

Correspondence Published—Mr.
Bryan Requested That Date be Canceled.

In response to the charge that William Jennings Bryan had been barred from Kentucky by the Democratic State Campaign Committee, Judge S. W. Hager, chairman of the committee, has made public the correspondence between himself and Mr. Bryan. The facts of the case are that the Kentucky Democrats did all in their power to induce Mr. Bryan to speak here, and that he was only released from his promise after it was shown that the time he could give to Kentucky was not suitable, and at the urgent request of the Ohio Democrats, who wanted Bryan to remain another day in their State. The failure to arrange for Mr. Bryan's appearance at Louisville and at Covington was a big disappointment to Judge Hager and all the Democrats in charge of the campaign.

The invitation to Mr. Bryan to speak in Kentucky came voluntarily from Judge Hager and his associates on the committee, and it was after repeated urging that he agreed to come at all. In reply to the letter of invitation Mr. Bryan wrote:

Sept. 16, 1903—Mr. S. W. Hager, Louisville, Ky. My Dear Sir: Your favor at hand. I am afraid that it will be impossible for me to come to Louisville this fall, and yet I feel so interested in the success of Gov. Beckham and the entire State ticket that I shall come if I find it possible to do so. Will correspond with you when I find that I can speak definitely.

Very truly yours,

W. J. BRYAN.

Late on the night of Oct. 13, 1903, Judge Hager heard again from Mr. Bryan in the following telegram: Lincoln, Neb. Oct. 13, 1903.—Chairman Democratic State Committee, Louisville, Ky. Can speak at Louisville next Monday at noon, Covington at 6 o'clock. Must leave Cincinnati for the East at 8 o'clock Monday evening. Answer immediately whether satisfactory. You can substitute other places, providing leaving time is not changed.

W. J. BRYAN.

Date Unsuitable.

As it was impossible to prepare for a meeting at noon in Louisville, and as it would also be impossible for Mr. Bryan to reach Covington in time catch a train at 8 o'clock for the East, Judge Hager sent the following reply to Mr. Bryan:

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 13, 1903.—Hon. W. J. Bryan, Lincoln, Neb.: Times don't suit for places named. Points suitable wouldn't permit you to leave Cincinnati at time designated. Am writing.

S. W. HAGER, Chairman.

In response to the last telegram, Mr. Bryan wrote again as follows: Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 14, 1903.—S. W. Hager, Chairman, Louisville, Ky.: Please wire Mayor Johnson, Cleveland, releasing me for next Monday, so that Ohio meeting can be arranged for that day. Will come to Kentucky later, if possible and will send letter this week for publication.

W. J. BRYAN. "The whole affair," said Judge Hager, "is the result of partisan efforts to misconstrue the action of this committee. We were the ones who asked Mr. Bryan to come, and he was the one who asked that the engagement be canceled. How under the circumstances, anyone would have the temerity to say that we barred him from Kentucky is past my comprehension."

VALUABLE DOG-COLLARS.

Many Set with Costly Gems—One Made of Gold Nuggets. "I can assure you that you have not been informed as to the gold and precious gem being used to decorate dogs' collars," said one of the best known dealers in such articles in London; "but the craze is far more prevalent in France, Russia and America than it is here," according to the London Tit-Bits.

"Not many weeks ago I supplied to the special order of an American lady a dog collar that cost 50 guineas. It was a chain collar of silver and gold links alternately, and with a gold bell to hang in front. French ladies are very fond of watch dog collars, a small gold watch being let into the front of the collar, and I have made several of these. But in scores of cases I supply beautifully made collars with name-plates of solid gold, and often enough with gold 'bosses' as well. Nearly all the collars of this class are intended for the carriage-dogs and drawing-room poodles alone, and in most cases the dogs do not belong to men, though the latter order and pay for the collars as presents.

"A fashion has lately had great vogue in France of putting tiny bracelets round the forelegs of poodles, and I have seen even diamonds let into these circles. But we only make these things by special order. At the same time, in my own stock, I have lots of dog collars ranging in price from three to twenty pounds. The most remarkable collar I have ever made was to the order of a gentleman from South Africa. It consisted of nuggets of gold and an uncut diamond, which he supplied, and it was given to a well-known lady as a present."

A mission is liable to swamp a magazine. So much zeal is developed that the real function of the publication, which is to entertain, is forgotten. Into this excess Everybody's Magazine, which has recently undertaken a crusade against the idolatry which riches habit in America, is obviously not to be. The November, contents-table makes a most inviting showing, presenting as it does stories and sketches by such amusing writers as Alfred Henry Lewis, O. Henry and Eugene Wood. There is no intrusion of a policy at all, and the reader is likely to find himself in midst of Francis Bellamy's article about "Successful Men Who Are Not Rich" without breaming that there is moral in it. Mr. Bellamy avers that the nation is losing its ideals and that today's success only means wealth. The millionaire is modern hero. The newest creed is he says: "Brains may be more important than money, but nowadays the best way to convince the world that you have brains, is to make money." The smart set of New York is frank in its exclusion of people who are not rich and has no place for statesmen, authors or scientists unless they have money. On the other hand, he instances important men in their country whose position is a splendid protest against the prevailing craze. Their careers, as stated here, are certain inspiring. The article will set people thinking about certain insignificant tendencies in modern life.

Alfred Hodder, who collaborated with Josiah Flynt in his series of studies of "Graft in American Cities," describes in "Reform that Reforms" what has been accomplished for decency in New York by an honest administration. There is also an authoritative summing-up of the career of John Alexander Dowie by a man with the official capacity for the task—L. K. Friedman, the distinguished Chicago novelist.

Quick work counts. Results tell the tale. No delay about Doan's Kidney Pills. They do their work quickly and well! Here's local proof of it.

R. C. Morefield, Sr., real estate dealer and assessor with the Christian County Title Co., residing at 222 W. 17th St., says: "For several years the condition of my back and of the kidney secretions furnished ample evidence that I was suffering from kidney disorders. The aching in my back would come on by spells often so severe that it was painful for me to stoop, to straighten up or to attempt any sudden movement. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised locally and thinking that they might help me, got a box at Thomas & Trachsel's drug store. I had used them only a few days when I noticed a marked improvement in my condition and I continued the treatment. It did me more good than any medicine I had ever used, and that is putting it mildly. You may publish my statement at any time and I will do all I can to let the value of Doan's Kidney Pills be known."

Greathouse, of Prattburg, Ga., speaks for itself: "I would have been dead but for the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It cured me of chronic diarrhoea after seven years of suffering. I can never say too much in praise of that remedy." For sale by C. K. Wyly, druggist.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment: Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. An Ancient Foe

To health and happiness is Scrofula—as ugly as ever since time immemorial. It causes blemishes in the neck, disfigures the skin, inflames the mucous membrane, wastes the muscles, weakens the bones, reduces the power of resistance to disease and the capacity for recovery, and develops into consumption.

"A bunch appeared on the left side of my neck. It caused great pain, was lanced, and because it running sore, I went into a general decline. IMPORTANT DECISION MADE.

L. & N. Wins a Case Involving Payment of Taxes.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 21.—The Louisville and Nashville has won an important tax suit in the United States district court for the Eastern district of Kentucky, which, if affirmed, will be of far reaching importance. In 1902 the L. & N. filed a petition in the federal court for the Eastern district of Kentucky, asking that the tax assessment on its property in Kentucky be reduced 20 per cent. It was set forth that the individual property owners of the State were all assessed on 80 per cent. of the full value of their property and that the company was discriminated against in the assessment.

Judge Cochran, at Covington, has decided that the contention of the L. & N. is valid and that it should be granted the relief asked for. The case will probably be appealed. It involves about $30,000 annually in state taxes.

PEOPLE WITH TEMPER.

They Make Life Very Unpleasant for Their Associates.

"I have never been anything better than a yellow dog in my own house," remarked a husband whose domestic woes go into court, says the New York Mail and Express. The only fault with his wife, he said, was "her temper." The casual phrase has the picturesqueness and fine appropriateness of vision. The man or woman who has a thoroughly ill-natured spouse or is thrown into constant and intimate intercourse with a violent-tempered companion, leads a dog's life—a yellow dog's life. Other dogs may suffer a martyrdom that is not without dignity, but the yellow dog is despised as well as persecuted. His sufferings are mitigated by no balm of self-respect. In putting up with injurious words and deeds from those who are near and more or less dear to him a man is cutting a sorry figure in his own eyes as well as in the eyes of others. There must be another "Taming of the Shrew" if he would rehabilitate himself.

The plain old English phrase, "a bad disposition," is the fittest to describe a violent temper. There is a touch of congenital badness about it, something akin to intermittent alcoholism or periodic vice. Even where it discharges itself in printable and fairly decorous language, it carries with it the ugly markings and associations of the bar rooms and the stew. It is not uncommon, however, when the barriers of restraint are broken down, for it to have frank intercourse to their forms of expression. So a man or a woman who has, as lifemate or boon companion, one who in minor provocation rips out with injurious violence and derogatory epithets, is in somewhat the same predicament as one who is yoked with a fellow whose past is not without reproach, who has to be "allowed for" with one's self and silently apologized for to others. It is a species of degradation.

There are those who pride themselves on the possession of what is called "a fine old temper." They are uncommonly easily pleased. "Ill" nature and "bad" temper—the words exist as embellishments of the deliberate experience of mankind. They stand as opinions of something morbid and something vile. The institution of the ducking school for scolds, male and female, embodies another hearty judgment, which was not abandoned when society abdicated the task of evicting the evil one by forcible immersion and allowing the ducking stool to fall the dunder. Its raison d'être was the belief that crossness was just a form of perverse egotism, a sort of childishness, of immaturity and exaggerated self-love, that could be cured by a course of sprouts. "A contentious woman and a rainy day are alike"—and a contentious man is not far different. One cannot avoid rainy days, but there is nothing inevitable about contention.

Wrote a Long History.

Onno Klopp, the historian, who died recently in Vienna, at the age of 81, wrote perhaps the longest history of the Stuarts in existence. He was in the service of the king of Hanover (1866) and was married for his bitter hatred of the Prussians. That prevented his completing his edition of Leibnitz's works, as the Prussian government, after the war, refused to let him consult the library and archives at Hanover, where the Leibnitz manuscripts are.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed, at R. C. Hardwick's drug store.

Important Request.

All persons holding ballot box keys and election seals are requested to return them immediately to the office of the county court clerk. This is important.

LAST SPIKE

Driven to Make New T. C. Line Complete.

Construction Trains Now Traversing The Entire Line to Nashville.

The last spike was driven in filling the gap in the Tennessee Central railroad between this city and Clarksville Tuesday night, and the first through train arrived here at 9 o'clock with loud whistling. The construction trains are now running over the whole line to Nashville, about eighty miles. A great effort was made to get the first through train to Hopkinsville on the 20th, as some reason not known to the public made that date a very important one. It was won to be won the prize was won.

Some of the track laid was temporary, but the work of adjusting and ballasting is under way and regular trains will be put on in thirty days.

The finish was made in Mr. R. H. Rives' field on the Clarksville pike. The contract for ballasting is in the hands of the same contractors who built the road and they will replace all temporary work as rapidly as possible.

"THE GOVERNOR'S SON."

A Special Cast and the Original Production.

The Four Cohan's everlasting musical comedy success, "The Governor's Son," which has had such successful productions in New York, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia and all the other large cities of the United States, will be presented at Holland's Opera House, Wednesday night, Oct. 28, with a special cast and the original production. "The Governor's Son," unlike the usual musical comedy has a story which is far in advance of those of its adversaries. The plot, while very complicated, is always free with the best of humor and comedy. There is an entanglement in the lines that mixes up the auditor, but is so intensely interesting that he follows it closely, gets the full benefit of every word and situation and appreciates the good laugh he has had. The musical numbers are as bright and brilliant as any comic opera, ever written, one of the songs, "I'd be Satisfied with Life," being immensely popular throughout the universe. The author, George M. Cohan, in giving the music world this choice comedy, entered upon a new era in musical shows, by giving a good and sufficient reason for all that happens behind the footlights in play form and at the same time eliminating the use of horse-play to create fun. Manager Fred Nibb, who is directing the tour of the company, has engaged a most clever lot of comedians, singers and dancers to appear in the piece, besides a large chorus of singing beauties and show girls combined. "The Governor's Son" will be found to be one of the strongest of the high-class attractions to be seen here this season and deserves the liberal patronage of the public.

"IN THREE CONTINENTS."

Editor Harry A. Sommers to Write a Book of Travel

Mr. H. A. Sommers, of the Elizabethtown News, who spent the first part of the year in foreign travel, will shortly issue a book entitled "In Three Continents." It will contain more than 200 pages and will be sold for $1.00. Mr. R. W. Brown, editor of the Louisville Times, says of the book:

"About December 15, in good time for the Holiday trade, 'In Three Continents,' by Harry A. Sommers, editor of the Elizabethtown News, will be given to the public in book form. In his book Mr. Sommers takes the reader with him in his trip abroad and delightfully adopting the role of guide, explains in vivid style the chief points of interest of places visited in Europe, Asia and Africa, mingling history and anecdote with the charm and completeness of his descriptions.

"The letters which make up the book were originally contributed to Mr. Sommers' paper, and at the time of their publication aroused wide interest. In them Mr. Sommers, with the keen eye for the notable and picturesque, tells what he saw just as he saw it, with no straining for effect, no studied effort at embellishment. Those who read the letters as they followed each other week after week, recognized a wealth of material entitled to a better fate than ephemeral newspaper fame, and so bought Mr. Sommers to republish them in book form. Mr. Sommers is so widely and favorably known in Kentucky, in Washington, Maryland and elsewhere, the prediction is natural that 'In Three Continents' will be keenly welcomed and read, and enjoy a wide and deserved popularity. While absorbingly interesting from a general viewpoint, those pages detailing the pilgrimage through the Holy Land are destined to prove invaluable to churchmen and Bible students."

THE LATERAN PALACE

Pope Pius X. Proposes to Make It His Summer Home.

It Has Figured in History as One of the Residences of the Popes—Centuries Ago—Half a Million for Repairs.

Pope Pius X. has taken Rome and all Italy by the ears by asking for estimates of the cost of repairing the Lateran palace in order to render it habitable for the papal court. This move of the new pope has caused unceasing comment, as it shows his evident intention to escape at last from the prison of the Vatican and venture again through the streets of Rome, notwithstanding the Italian occupation. No large gardens adjoin the palace of the Lateran, so if Pius X. decides to take up his residence there he will of necessity be obliged to take his walks and drives in or around Rome. At the present time Lateran palace is in rather dilapidated condition, and it will take at least half a million dollars to make it a fit residence for the pope.

Centuries ago this palace was used as one of the residences of the popes. Constantine, having given to Pope Sylvester for his palace. This magnificent building and the property adjoining had belonged to Plautius Lateranus, and the very name is therefore of pagan source. It seems that Lateranus was the leader of the first and unsuccessful conspiracy against Nero and his extensive possessions were confiscated. The Lateran palace continued to enjoy the occupancy of the popes until 1377, when Gregory XI, on the return of the popes from Avignon, transferred the throne to the Vatican. The palace was burned in the reign of Clement V., but was rebuilt by Sixtus V. from designs furnished by Fontana. Innocent XII. made it a hospital for the aged, and Pope XVI. converted it in 1843 into a museum, to which purpose it is still devoted. Besides collections of paintings and statues, it has a department of the Vatican archives, some of the most interesting of which are from the catacombs. A portion of this museum occupies the apartments which were formerly used by the popes. The museum is open to the public several days in the week.

The Lateran palace is one of the four pieces of property which the Italian government did not take from the pope at the time of the occupation of Rome. It adjoins the church of St. John, the oldest in the "Eternal City," and some of the officers of that church have apartments in the palace, among them Cardinal Satolli, the arch priest, who occupies a magnificent suite of 16 rooms beautifully furnished. The church and palace are in the southeast part of the city, near the walls of Aurelian and Honorius. The church is a fine specimen of architecture, and contains many interesting works of art. It was long regarded as the first of Christian churches, bearing over the door the inscription: "Omnia unius et orbis ecclesiarum mater et caput." Five general councils were held under its roof, and the popes used to be crowned in it, and the ceremony of taking possession of the Lateran basilica was one of the first in the installation of the new pontiff.

Besides the Lateran and the Vatican palaces, the holy see possesses the palaces of the Cancelleria, which is now used as the seat of all the Roman congregations, and the beautiful villa of Cardinal Gandolfo, a short distance from Rome, which is now occupied by monks to whom the late pope, Leo XIII., granted its use.

As has already been said, if Pius X. does restore the Lateran palace as a residence of the popes, the absence of gardens about the palace will bring the pope more into the public eye than his immediate predecessors, as his walks and drives will take him out into the busy scenes and life of the city and its environs. This will afford the world a new view of the life of the head of the Catholic church, and will in turn give him into closer, more vital contact with the masses. This democratic tendency of the pope and his desire to restore this palace to its former glory and use is singularly like the policy of his predecessor in name, Pope Pius IX., to whose efforts was largely due the preservation of the coliseum and other ancient buildings. There is no doubt that the removal of Pius X. to Lateran palace and his frequent appearance in public as he goes out to take fresh air and exercise will be exceedingly pleasing and gratifying to the Catholics of Rome and all Italy.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 21.—The Appellate Court to day, Chief Justice Burnham writing, reversed the judgment of the Clark Circuit Court in a case of the Board of Education of the city of Winchester against N. K. Foster and others. The whole court considered the case.

The suit was by the appellee for a mandamus to require the School Board to admit the co-plaintiff, Gertrude N. Price, into the public schools without payment of the tuition fees, she being a native of Virginia and temporarily residing in this State. The court below decided for the appellees.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition, belys, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased. Kidney trouble has been called the most common ailment that is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the child urinates the fluid, or if, when the child urinates an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonials letters received from sufferers. CHARGED WITH THEFT.

Man From Hopkinsville Is Under Arrest at Clarksville.

Clarksville, Tenn., Oct. 20.—A white man who gave his name as Ed Edwards, of Pittsburg, Pa., was arrested by Chief Robinson this morning on the charge of larceny in Hopkinsville, Ky. Edwards came to Clarksville Saturday and exhibited an Elks' card just to show that he was the people. He went to Father O'Neal for assistance and was referred to Jos. Bolin, but by mistake went to J. M. Bowling. During his conversation the man laid down several letters addressed to Henry G. Wood, Hopkinsville, Ky., and when he left the letters were forgotten. Mr. Wood is a nephew of Mr. Bowling, and the latter telephoned to Hopkinsville to find out how Edwards had secured the letters. He was informed that Edwards had stolen from Wood's coat as he came to town and several letters. The authorities were notified of the theft and this morning Edwards was arrested. He at first denied having ever been in Hopkinsville, but finally owned up and said he swapped for the coat. He was locked up to await the instructions of the Kentucky officers.

Do Good—It Pays.

A Chicago man has observed that "Good deeds are better than real estate deeds—some of the latter are worthless. Act kindly and gently, show sympathy and lend a helping hand. You cannot possibly lose by it." Most men appreciate a kind word and encouragement more than substantial help. There are persons in this community who can truthfully say: "My good friend, cheer up. A few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will rid you of your cold, and there is no danger whatever from pneumonia when you use that medicine. It always cures. I know it for it has helped me many a time." Sold by C. K. Wyly, druggist.

Historic Tragedies

WHEN JOHNSON WAS IN HOPKINSVILLE 39 YEARS AGO.

Execution of Lieut. Col. Jas. F. Brewer—Killing of Col. T. G. Woodward—Court House Burned.

(The following historical sketch by the editor of THE KENTUCKIAN is reprinted, with some additions, from the Courier-Journal of October 4, 1903. It will run through several issues until completed.)

PART IV.

A little more about Col. Johnson may not be out of place. He continued to be active until the end of the war.

On one occasion Dr. W. L. Nourse, the well known Presbyterian minister of this city, who lived in Owensboro during the war, was in Louisville to intercede for some of his friends who were under arrest. While awaiting an audience in Col. Tom Fairleigh's office a courier came to Col. Fairleigh with a requisition from Gen. Stephen Burridge for four men to be shot in retaliation for the death of one union man.

Col. Fairleigh used some vigorous language in refusing to send the men, saying he was sick and tired of such business. Col. Johnson happened to be present and stepped forward and asked Col. Fairleigh to allow him to detail the men from a list he carried in his pocket, saying "I have some fellows in prison in Hopkinsville who would be good men to have shot." Dr. Nourse left without knowing the outcome, but as the men here were not detailed, the supposition is that Col. Fairleigh refused to make the detail.

Johnson's Rough Experience After the War.

After the war he was seen but little around Hopkinsville. Many people had scores to settle with him, and he had trouble more than once. On one occasion a man from the Kentucky Purchase made a trip on horseback to Russellville to cowhide him. At another time a man named Taylor met him on the street in Russellville, or Bowling Green, and undertook to chastise

The bodies of the two men were taken in an express wagon to the undertaking establishment of George O. Thompson and prepared for burial by A. W. Pyle, then a young apprentice in Thompson's store, but now a veteran furniture dealer and undertaker of Hopkinsville.

Capt. Brewer's body was put in a metallic casket in the gray uniform stained with his blood, and the following day it was taken to the family burying ground near Brewer's Mill and laid to rest.

Gen. Lyon Burns the Courthouse

The same day there came a wild rumor that struck terror to the heart of Johnson. Gen. H. B. Lyon was reported to be preparing to march against Hopkinsville, with a large force of Confederates. There was a general exodus from the city. Johnson evacuated in haste, going towards Clarksville and driving before him, on foot, like so many cattle, thirty or forty citizens, who were in prison on one pretext or another. These prisoners were cruelly treated. At one place they were forced to wade a stream when their captors might have taken them across on their horses.

Johnson himself did not go into Clarksville, but with most of his command turned towards Elkhart. Near Elkhart they came across a confederate soldier who had escaped from a northern prison. He was pale, weak and worn out and was supposing that he would be given a prisoner's treatment, he surrendered, admitting that he was an escaped soldier. Col. Johnson started with him from Elkhart to Russellville and as the sick man complained that he could not walk and keep up with the cavalry, he was taken out to the roadside, near McCormack's spring, in Todd county, and shot to death. The neighbors buried the poor fellow where he fell and his bones still and courageous under all circumstances. He had made himself feared by the Union soldiers, and so long had he eluded all their efforts to capture him that he seemed to bear a charm life. When Johnson succeeded at last in capturing him he took no chances on his escape or rescue, but executed him with brutal haste. The exact place of his capture was not far from Russellville, on the Christian side of the county line. This information comes from residents of the vicinity, who are familiar with the details as they occurred 39 years ago. He was pursued some distance before he was finally captured, after his horse had fallen with him in the attempt to escape. (CONCLUDED.)

Commissioner's Sale.

Christian Circuit Court, Kentucky.
Mrs. Sallie Hancock, &c., vs. H. H. Gray & Others, Equity.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Christian Circuit Court, rendered at the September term thereof, 1903, in the above cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court-house door in Hopkinsville, Ky., to the highest bidder, at public auction, on Monday, the 2nd day of November, 1903, at 11 o'clock, a. m., or thereabout, (being County Court day) upon a credit of six months, the following described property to-wit:

A certain tract or parcel of land situated in Christian county, Ky., about 7 miles East of Hopkinsville, Ky., North of and near the Fairview turnpike road, on the waters of the East fork of Little river; and being the same land conveyed to Hester A. Gray, by E. J. Maddox, by deed of record in the Christian county clerk's office, in Deed Book 39, page 384; and containing 145 acres, more or less. Less the following portion sold off of said tract by Hester A. Gray, to H. M. Tyson, by deed of record in said clerk's office in Deed Book 41, page 476; same being off of the North part of said tract, containing 27 and 1/4 acres, leaving balance of said tract to be sold of 117 and 1/4 acres, more or less.

Sold for division of the estate of Hester A. Gray, deceased. For the purchase price, the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or securities, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a replevin bond. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms. J. WALTER KNIGHT, Special Commissioner.

Drive of the Christian Court House him for some indignity heaped upon him. Johnson was a powerful man physically and Taylor was small, but what he lacked in size he made up in courage. Taylor attacked him with a riding whip. A struggle ensued; they clinched and rolled into the gutter, Taylor underneath. But the fight was not over. The little man seized Johnson's nose in his teeth, and as he begged for mercy scrambled on top and belabored him until he was satisfied. A crowd gathered around and prevented interference. When Taylor desisted he found himself a hero. He was forced to hold a reception to accept congratulations. One of the leading citizens of the town took him home with him to dinner and the next day, presented him with a fine toothbrush and advised him to use it before eating dinner. It is not known here what eventually became of Johnson, but it is thought, he resumed his ministerial duties, removed to Illinois and continued to preach until his death.

Buried at Brewer's Mill.

But to return to the murder of Brewer and the other prisoner.

rest beneath the sod that was stained with his blood.

Gen. Lyon did not come at once, but about the middle of December, 1864, he made his expected visit, burned the courthouse and terrified the Union sympathizers. Johnson had returned and this time he escaped westward, as Gen. Lyon came from Clarksville. Passing on, Gen. Lyon burned the courthouses in several other towns and, finally, advanced in the direction of Louisville.

The picture here shown of the burned courthouse was taken at the time by Mr. E. L. Foulkes, a local photographer, now a coal merchant, who is still living in Hopkinsville.

The Brewer family no longer lives in this vicinity. Capt. Brewer left two brothers. One of them, Dr. Grave S. Brewer, died at Hope, Ark., a few weeks ago.

Jim Brewer is well remembered by many old citizens. He was of personal appearance tall and well proportioned. His hair was light and he wore at the time he was killed a short brown beard. He was handsome, fluent as a speaker

Personnel of Our Grand Pictorial Edition!

Merchants AND Business Men.

Don't be left out of this grand advertising medium. Our most prominent business men and their business will be represented in this issue to the best advantage.

Don't blame us if you are left out of this issue.

'Phone us or call at the office if we haven't seen you.

If any business man has been overlooked it was not intentional. But we do not expect to canvass the county. Don't stand back and wait for us to call on you, but call or send a message to the office at once if interested. When you see what is proposed you can order space if you want it, otherwise you are under no obligation to do so. But remember, if you are not in this edition after it is published to blame yourself, not us. We shall be glad to have all who wish to be represented. Business men, can you afford to be left out of this Pictorial Edition? This issue will be read and reread by Christian county people and kept as a souvenir.

Our Pictorial Edition a Large Success.

Nearly all our prominent business men have taken space in our Pictorial Edition of the Kentuckian. We are now getting together the "copy" for this publication, but the forms will not be closed before Nov. 15. We have several pages of business men, interior views of some of our leading enterprises: lawyers, county officials, candidates and professional men; views of schools, churches, public buildings and scenery.

Now we want this edition to be a complete pictorial representation of Christian county, and to make it so we must have a page or two devoted to the women. Kentucky has the prettiest women in the world, and no county in the State is more blessed in this particular than ours. If we could afford it, we would like to accommodate about fifty of our lady friends by publishing their portraits in this edition. But it costs about five dollars each to have the photograph and cut made, of the superior quality we are using. And unless some of our gallant swains or proud fathers, husbands and brothers chip in and help us we shall be compelled to cut down this feature to a very small number. Candidates, lawyers, judges and city officials, do not be left out.

Even Larger Than We Expected.

OUR Pictorial Edition A Grand Success.

The Hot Blast From Chicago.

How dear to my heart are some scenes of my childhood,
Which sad recollection presents to my vision!
How we all used to freeze, around that old fashioned heater,
And shivered in fuel that blew up the flame.
"It dispensed with vast heat," we'd remark with a shiver;
The inside was cold, though the outside was well;
It drove us to get the Hot Blast from Chicago,
Which brought the warm wave,
We are happy to tell—
The modern Hot Blast, the fiery Hot Blast,
The Hot Blast from Chicago we all prize so well.

No more do we dread the return of cold weather,
For it takes all the frost out of winter, we find.
It seems to have cornered all heat in the market.
"Tis a heater you fell, with a heat warm and kind;
Your forehead grows florid, it's horridly hot,
You don't need to hug it, though you feel like it well;
It's air tight and heat-lose, saving fuel and money,
It pleases our buyers, and the dealers who sell—
The Up-to-date Hot Blast, the modern Hot Blast,
The Hot Blast from Chicago, the world loves so well.

OFFICE NO. 5 N. MAIN ST.

'PHONE FRANCHISE

To Be Sold By the City
To-day.

Two Independent Companies Interested in the Matter.

From the best information that can be obtained, the Cumberland Telephone Company does not intend to bid on the franchise to be sold at noon to-day, preferring the present contract system to a regular franchise.

Mr. T. D. Webb, Treasurer of the Cumberland company, was in the city yesterday making a canvass of the business men and offering to sell them stock in this company.

One of the leading business men approached, told Mr. Webb that the people of Hopkinsville did not care for stock in his company, but did want cheaper phones and wanted the Cumberland's property taxed like other property in the city.

This plan is of course to induce local people to use their influence in perpetuating the monopoly with its present exorbitant schedule of prices.

Hon. Nerge Clark, of Bowling Green, is in the city as a probable bidder for an independent company, using the Home service and connections.

The new system put in at Bowling Green last July now has 490 'phones, a great many more than the Bell system has and the old rates of from $3.50 to $4.50 a month have been reduced to $3 for business houses and $1.50 for residences, all on single lines.

The independent company in Lexington, after two years and four months, now has 2,700 'phones which cost the patrons only $2.50 for business houses and $1.50 for residences. The lines are all individual metallic circuits. Here also the obsolete Bell service has been left far behind.

Another possible bidder for the franchise proposes to use the automatic service, by which connections are made by the caller himself. This system also provides individual lines. The party lines are growing more unpopular every day. On the county lines with from three to five on a line they are a positive nuisance. The city has no jurisdiction over these lines and the Cumberland holds out no hope of relief to these patrons. If a new company without party lines is given an opportunity to serve these patrons at the same prices charged by the Cumberland, the people will not wait long to decide between the new and the old.

In Bowling Green the grocers with but one exception have adopted the Home phone exclusively. All of the meat men have done the same. The Adams Express Company has also and one by one the branches of business will likewise until by the end of the year the cry of "two phones" will alarm no one. The question will be adjusted on business lines and the old company will be kept without patrons.

The independent lines, acting together, now connect with the large cities and come as near to us as Bowling Green on one line and Princeton on another leading to Louisville.

The sale of the franchise, if made as ordered, will be acted upon at a called meeting of the council tonight.

A Thoughtful Man.

M. M. Austin of Winchester, Ind. knew what to do in the hour of need. His wife had such an unusual case of stomach and liver trouble, physicians could not help her. He thought of and tried Dr. King's New Life Pills and she got relief at once and was finally cured. Only 125c, at R. C. Hardwick's drug store.

The Greatest Modern Step in the Manufacture of Wagons

Is the Adoption of the Tire Setting Machine.

This machine was invented by a man by the name of West. It is a ponderous affair, weighing 14,000 pounds and costing $2,000. It not only sets a tire much better than the old way, but does not burn or char the felloe, thus taking all the life and elasticity out of the wood. Every up-to-date factory, in fact every wagon plant that can afford to buy one has it at work, and no farmer can afford to have his tire cut and set the old ruinous way. Come and see it operate.
